ADDENDUM

Since THE SIMPLIFIED GUIDE TO UNDERSTANDING CUBA SANCTIONS FOR ORGANIZATIONS OR INDIVIDUALS DOING BUSINESS WITH INSPIRE CUBA, INC. (“Inspire Cuba”) (the “Guide”) was first published, the United States government has made changes to the regulations governing Cuba related sanctions, which have in turn resulted in the changes to the Guide, as set forth below:

1. Footnote 2 of the Guide is updated to include newly added sanctioned destinations. See <https://www.treasury.gov/resource-center/sanctions/programs/pages/programs.aspx>.
2. The reference to “GLE for Remittances” in page 7 of the Guide and the reference in footnote 25 to “515.570 Remittances” is deleted since the United States government is now prohibiting donative remittances altogether. See https://www.treasury.gov/resource-center/sanctions/Programs/Documents/cuba_fact_sheet_20190906.pdf.

EFFECTS TO INSPIRE CUBA

Despite these changes:

- Inspire Cuba continues to be fully authorized to do certain humanitarian projects in Cuba by general license exemption (no license required) pursuant to 31 CFR 515.575; and that includes making certain payments and exporting certain goods.
- Inspire Cuba personnel continues to be authorized to travel to Cuba to implement or monitor humanitarian projects in Cuba by general license exemption (no license required) pursuant to 31 CFR 515.574.

Because of these changes:

- Inspire Cuba is no longer authorized to send donative remittances to Cuba, which greatly affects Inspire Cuba’s ability to carry out its mission by sustaining projects and otherwise provide support for the Cuban people.

SIMPLIFIED GUIDE TO UNDERSTANDING CUBA SANCTIONS FOR ORGANIZATIONS OR INDIVIDUALS DOING BUSINESS WITH INSPIRE CUBA, INC. (“Inspire Cuba”)¹

Introduction

Cuba is one of only three countries² currently subjected to an embargo and comprehensive sanctions by the United States government. As part of the embargo and the sanctions regime in place, a license from the United States Department of Commerce Bureau of Industry and Security (“BIS”) is needed to either export or re-export all items subject to the Export Administration Regulations (“EAR”), including most items in EAR99.³ All persons subject to United States jurisdiction must comply with the embargo and the sanctions regime administered by BIS.⁴ In practice, almost every item in existence is subject to control and may not be exported from the United States to Cuba unless a license issued by BIS is first obtained or a license exemption covering that item is available.⁵

Separately, the United States Department of the Treasury’s Office of Foreign Assets Control (“OFAC”) administers additional commercial, financial and travel related Cuba sanctions. Similarly to BIS-administered sanctions, no commercial, financial or travel related transactions involving Cuba can be undertaken by any person subject to United States jurisdiction unless a license is first issued by OFAC or a license exemption is available for that transaction.

This Guide deals exclusively with license exemptions, also often referred to as General License Exemptions (“GLEs”). Inspire Cuba limits its operations to activities in Cuba that are authorized under one or more available GLEs. GLEs are available for certain BIS items and OFAC transactions. If a person subject to United States jurisdiction undertakes an activity covered by GLEs, then the activity is automatically authorized, and no additional permits or certifications are required from BIS or OFAC.

¹ Contact Andy Garcia (Compliance Director and licensed Florida attorney) for more information at board@inspirecuba.org or 407-716-1398.

² The other two countries being Iran and Syria.

³ See part 734 of the EAR here.

⁴ 31 CFR 515.329 (2018) defines “Persons Subject to U.S. Jurisdiction” to include: (a) any individual, wherever located, who is a citizen or resident of the U.S., (b) Any person within the United States, (c) Any corporation, partnership, association, or other organization organized under the laws of the United States or any State, territory, possession, or district of the United States; and, (d) any corporation, partnership, association, or other organization, wherever organized or doing business, that is owned or controlled by persons specified in paragraphs (a) or (c) above. Section 515.308 (2018) defines “Person” as “an individual, partnership, association or other organization.”

⁵ See 15 CFR 746.1\(a\)\(1\).

Disclaimer: This document is not a legal opinion and it is not intended as a substitute for enacted legislation or adopted regulations of the United States government.

With this Guide, we hope to accomplish the following:

1. Clearly explain which activities Inspire Cuba can freely undertake under GLEs and which items or category of items Inspire Cuba may freely export or re-export to Cuba
2. Clearly explain which exemption applies to certain activities or exports commonly undertaken by Inspire Cuba so that classification becomes easier for Inspire Cuba's board of directors; therefore, contributing to the implementation of a more effective compliance process
3. Clearly explain Inspire Cuba's obligations when undertaking activities or exports subject to GLEs
4. Reassure our business partners, financial supporters and other stakeholders of our strict compliance with Cuba sanctions
5. Implement the compliance guidelines recommended by the United States government for organizations dealing with sanctioned destinations and individuals
